OUR TOTEM POLE

IT HAS BEEN HERE FOR FIVE YEARS

DO YOU KNOW WHY?

Our totem pole was started in 1967 as a centennial project. A native West Coast Indian, a master at his art, was brought in especially for the undertaking. The huge cedar log from which the pole was carved, is also from the West Coast.

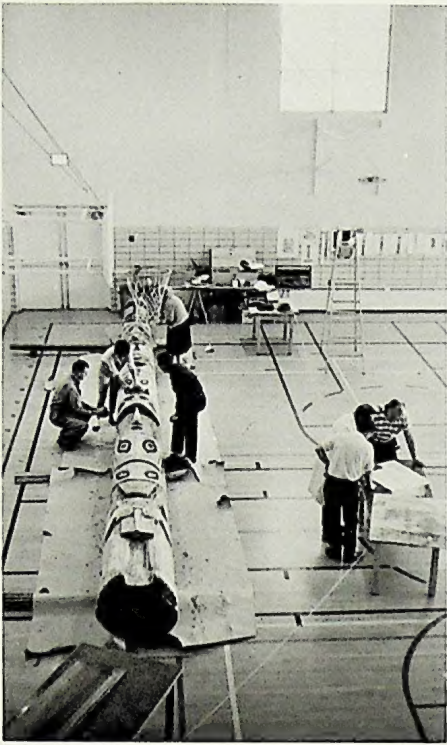

BEGINNING THE PLANS, THE CARVER

THE LOG

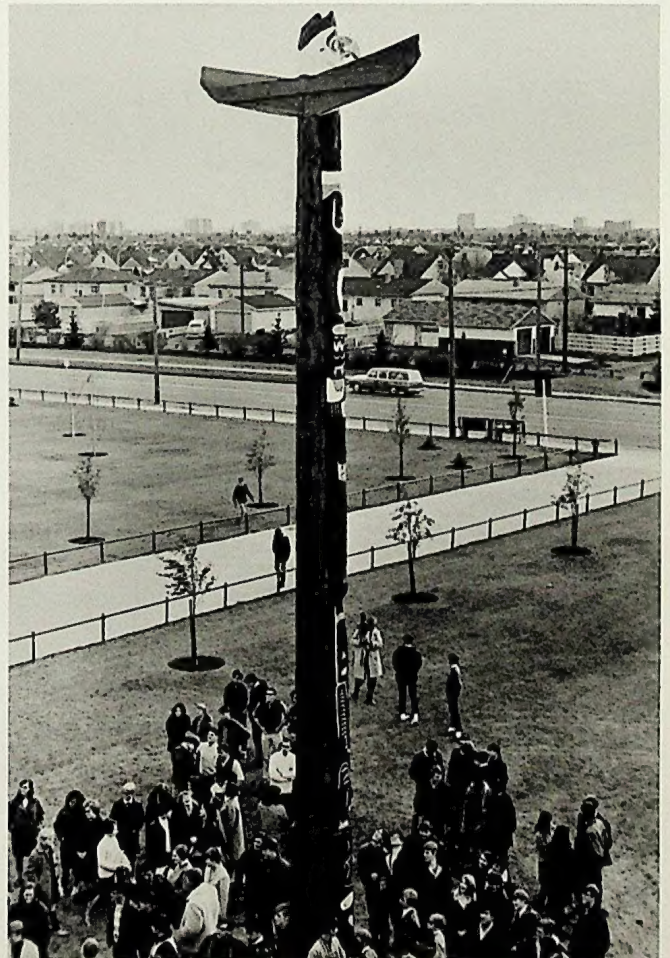

THE WORK

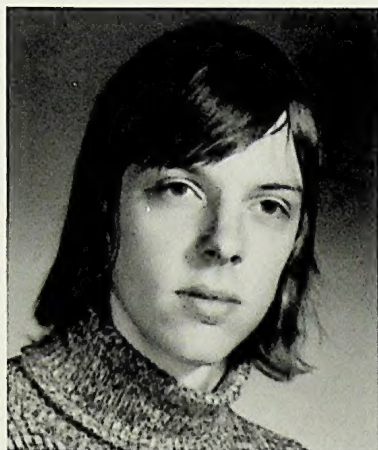

THE FINISHED POLE ROSS SHEPPARD'S THUNDERBIRD

The carver chose the symbols for the pole very appropriately. Our school emblem, the Thunderbird, signifying with its outstretched wings, protection and shielding from harm, tops the totem. The Head Man (Mr. Nicoll) comes next on the pole with the interests of his tribe at heart. This is followed by an owl, representing wisdom. The Indian Sampson, tearing flukes from a sea lion, comes next. He signifies our school's sports life. A killer whale follows, driving small fish into shallow water providing food for the tribe. The last figure on the totem is the grizzly bear, holding the tribes copper plaque or shield against his chest.

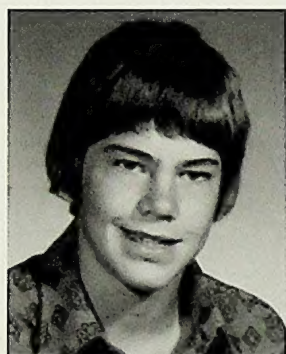

STUDENT'S UNION

Dave Lowe, President

It is my most sincere hope that this president's message is not a carbon copy of some fifteen same such letters that have proceeded it since this high school's inauguration. I, personally, have witnessed the first beginnings of change in the role of student government in the over-all process of education this year. We, the student body, are beginning to have a respected and hopefully regarded voice in the system which determines the course of our adult lives. Consequently, this message is directed not to those of us who graduate this year, but to those who will remain next year, and years after. We are no longer a radical, mocked voice, but a more skillful, considered one. More and more, students are becoming educated in the conventional, "establishment", methods of conveying their views. The student has learned to win, effectively, on the playing fields of the powers that be. This is no inconsiderable accomplishment. It marks the end of a phase; a frustrating and often violent phase. I only wish that the succeeding years work more and more effectively, and so with the goal of student participation in education, students may finally discard the role of the innocent bystander, in this, the most important phase of their lives. We of the graduation class have had our try, and gained a little; I hope that you can accomplish much more.

ON HUMAN RELATIONS

1. Speak to people. There is nothing as nice as a cheerful word of greeting.
2. Smile at people. It takes 72 muscles to frown only 14 to smile.
3. Call people by name. The sweetest music to anyone's ears is the sound of his own name.
4. Be friendly and helpful. If you would have friends, be friendly.
5. Be cordial. Speak and act as if everything you do were a genuine pleasure.
6. Be genuinely interested in people. You can like everybody if you try.

7. Be generous with praise - cautious with criticism.
8. Be considerate with the feelings of others. It will be appreciated.
9. Be thoughtful of the opinions of others. There are three sides to a controversy - yours, the other fellow's and the right one.
10. Be alert to give service. What counts most in life is what we do for others.

YEARBOOK STAFF

EDITORS MESSAGE

The 1973 Courier represents a change from the yearbooks that have gone before it. We have tried to make it a unique and interesting book of high quality. To attain this we changed publishers and as a result the year end activities have not been included. We worked on four deadlines, the first one was in December and the last on April the second. We felt that this sacrifice was justified and that the changes that have been implemented are for the better. But only you can tell us if it was truly worth it.

This book could not have been published at all if it weren't for the combined efforts of many people, whom I wish to thank for their efforts. I would especially wish to thank Susan Saidman for her shoulder to cry on and her very capable assistance. To Diane Austin, we are all deeply in debt for without her the change in our yearbook would not have been possible. To Avery Raskin, he made our dreams of more candid come true. But a yearbook is not individuals; it is a group of people working together through hours, days, and months to complete the biggest and most expensive undertaking of the year. I feel they all deserve congratulations on a great book and a great effort.

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

MR. I.M.
NICOLL

I am certain that many times over the last few years we have all heard that we are living in an age of very rapid change but have we really stopped to consider how extensively things have changed.

If we were to divide all human history into two equal parts, the dividing line would be well within living memory. In other words, nearly half of everything that has happened has occurred within the life time of our graduating students. Our students have not only had to cope with the normal day-to-day problems of growing up; they have, because of instant communications, been brought face to face with the stark realities of human problems and miseries from all over the world. Today's student has encountered more human relations in 15 years than his grandfather did in a life span of 80 or 90 years.

In the field of knowledge, the change is even more significant for the world's knowledge is said to double in a little over 10 years and this opens up a whole host of questions about the future.

Alvin Tofler in his best-selling book Future Shock examines the human problems created by the "roaring current of change." What he has to say should be read by most of today's youth. Closer to home, Alberta's Commission on Educational Planning in the Worth Report published last summer, examines the implications of too much change in too short a time, and on the whole they are more optimistic about the future. Because they note that society has, for the first time in its history, "the technological means needed to control change and to choose our destiny." However they indicate that if we are to solve the problems created by rapid technological innovation the values of society must change so that "technology and industrial development serve human needs and wants" more directly and purposefully than has ever been done in the past.

THE BUCKET

Sometime when you're feeling important,
Sometime when you ego's in bloom,
Sometime when you take it for granted,
You're the best qualified in the room.

Sometime when you feel that your going
Would leave an unfillable hole.
Just follow this simple instruction,
And see how it humbles your soul.

Take a bucket, and fill it with water,
Put your hand in it, up to the wrist;
Pull it out; and the hole that's remaining,
Is a measure of how you'll be missed.

You may splash all you please when you enter,
You can stir up the water galore,
But stop, and you'll find in a minute,
That it looks quite the same as before.

The moral of this quaint example,
Is do just the best that you can,
Be proud of yourself, but remember,
There's no indispensable man.

SCHOOL II

Small eyes turning upward
At slow moving hands.
Hurry!
Feet squeaking
On brown and gray tiles
Below defaced desks . . .
Only seconds to go . . .
A sound comes,
A rush of laughter
And noise,
Then silence
In the classroom.
